I think I love his first work the most. It is Peter Camenzind, very romantic. But when you want to laugh you definitely must read Kurgast. I dig this book because of the self-spot of an a bit difficult man, who tries to handle his life, and at the same time spiritual growth. I can see myself in it.

What is your favorite Hesse novel? - Herman Hesse Forum

One of the greatest works of fiction of all time written by the greatest author of his time. I have read Siddhartha four times and like Maugham's Razors Edge it is impossible to read it too often. There is not a sufficiency of superlatives in the authors native German or in our language to describe or accurately praise Hesse or his work.
