Why do we think we're so bad at maths, when we're all - almost all - born with brain circuits specialised for numbers? Our ability to use numbers has been the key from taking us from the Stone Age to the Phone Age. Trade, science and technology would be impossible without this ability. Neuroscientist Brian Butterworth argues that we are all born with brain circuits specialised for numbers.

Neuropsychological tests are specifically designed tasks used to measure a psychological function known to be linked to a particular brain structure or pathway. Tests are used for research into brain function and in a clinical setting for the diagnosis of deficits. They usually involve the systematic administration of clearly defined procedures in a formal environment.

Music psychology, or the psychology of music, may be regarded as a branch of both psychology and musicology. It aims to explain and understand musical behaviour and experience, including the processes through which music is perceived, created, responded to, and incorporated into everyday life. Modern music psychology is primarily empirical; its knowledge tends to advance on the basis of ...
